Jeff:

This table looks generally good to me. Here are some suggestions:

1. Have a separate tab for the Tank Trailer Data. Make sure we include the tank trailer data that we sampled under the CES Chemical Spill Response since we used this data for the Assessment.;

2. I would reference the CES Chemical Spill Response Report even though I have not yet completed reviewing it since it will have data in it (Soil, Air, Waste) that may be important going forward on this cleanup.

CES Chemical Spill Response Report:

I am having trouble determining the correct comparison data for this report.

1. Waste Sample (Tanker Trailers): We don't need to compare it to anything.

2. Stormwater (Water Out of Ditch): This should be compared to appropriate ecological screening numbers and to human health (inhalation, ingestion, contact) screening numbers. EPA has some screening numbers under its RSLs under the Soil to GW but not sure if appropriate. Can you ask one of your toxicologists? Jon Rausher with EPA.

3. Air: I think we have the right comparison numbers but could you check with a toxicologist and maybe Jon Rauscher.

4. Soil: I think we have the right comparison numbers but could you check with a toxicologist and maybe Jon Rauscher.

We may have to do so risk calculations

Thanks

Gary,

Here's a first cut of the tables based on our call yesterday. We will have sample location map with call outs as to where the samples were collected. That map is under development.

Call or email with questions or comments.

Thanks!
